

Brigid Lloyd specialises in dispute avoidance and resolution, dealing with complex issues arising out of major projects.

Brigid acts for a broad range of private sector principal and contractor clients. She practises primarily in the area of dispute avoidance and resolution, dealing with complex issues arising out of major construction and infrastructure projects. Brigid's advisory work focuses on risk management strategies and drafting in the negotiation of major construction and infrastructure projects.

Brigid has been recognised by Best Lawyers and Doyle's Guide as a leading practitioner in the field of Construction and Infrastructure.

Major Projects

Acting for an international contractor pursuing high-value claims in connection with the construction of a metro rail infrastructure project in Sydney.

Acting for a D&C contractor in connection with a public airport rail link project in Perth and advising on a broad range of claims, disputes and strategic issues.

Acting for the EPC contractor during the delivery phase of a major renewable energy project in New South Wales.

Advising Project Co during the delivery phase of a major light rail PPP.

Representing a professional services firm in Federal Court proceedings involving multi-billion dollar claims for misleading/deceptive conduct in connection with the Airport Link toll road in Brisbane.

Advising a JV client on its successful bid for the Snowy 2.0 project, including the negotiation of EPC terms and related project documents.

Acting for the respondent party to a funded class action in the Federal Court of Australia, brought on behalf of a group of investors in a PPP project who claimed to have suffered loss as a result of misleading statements in a product disclosure statement.

Advising a subcontractor on significant claims in connection with the Roy Hill project in Western Australia for delay, changes to scope and misleading/deceptive conduct.

Working with a principal to prepare and implement claims and risk management procedures to assist with the administration and successful delivery of a large number of contracts in the context of significant port, rail and mine infrastructure in Western Australia.

Advising a major equity investor in relation to the project documents for the construction of the Victorian Comprehensive Cancer Centre in Melbourne.

Providing a wide range of advice to both contractors and principals on issues such as change of scope, delay and liquidated damages, geotechnical conditions, defects, misrepresentation, termination and conduct-related claims.

Brigid Lloyd
BA (Hons) LLB (Hons) LLM
Director
+61 3 9606 3202
blloyd@molinocahill.com.au